AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

A Large Crowd Witnessed Lee's Performance Last Night.

The hypnotic performance of Sylvain A. Lee was witnessed last night by one of the largest and most intelligent audiences that ever assembled in the opera house. Mr. Lee opened the show by giving a ten minutes lecture on the history of hypnotism, which he says is very poorly named. It could be very much better termed "suggestion." Mr. Lee is not only a great hypnotist, but an interesting and entertaining talker and adds much to the enjoyment of his performances by getting the right word in the right place.

After the lecture Mr. Lee called for volunteers from the audience. Nearly a score responded and the fun began. They were first hypnotized seperately; then all at once, and the audience was kept in a roar of laughter from this time on. The sleepers opened their mouths, but were unable to shut them; they were put to laughing and were unable to stop until awakened, and best of all, they were put to dancing and were having an old-time scamperdown until they were awakened one by one. After a short dance Mr. Lee awakened all but the best dancer, Mr. J. T. Temple. Mr. Temple is a splendid dancer and did exceedingly well last night, considering the fact that it was his first performance for public amusement.

Exhibitions of catalepsy and anæsthesis were also given. While in a cataleptic state, one man, whose body rested on the backs of two chairs, supported five others whose aggregate weight was nearly 1,000 pounds.

During the performance, Mr. Lee tried hypnotizing those who would yield, while they remained in their seats. About a dozen were hypnotized in this manner. One of them was at least twenty yards away

Just before the close of the evening's performance, Mr. Howard Ross, a marble polisher, was put into a hypnotic sleep to remain, without food or drink, until the close of the performance Wednesday night. By this time he will have slept 48 hours. He is sleeping on a cot in the Carolina Shoe Co.'s show window, where every one may see him.

VERNON-SAMPSON.

Mr. George Vernon and Miss Hattie Sampson Married Today.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized at 11 o'clock this morning at the home of the bride's mother, on Asheboro street, Miss Hattie Sampson, of this city, and Mr. George Vernon, of South Boston, Va., being the contracting parties. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a number of friends and relatives of the bride and groom. Rev. Livingston Johnson, pastor of West Washington street Baptist church, officiated.

Mr. Vernon is a brother of our townsman, A. T. Vernon, and of R. L. Vernon, of Charlotte, and has many friends here, having been, at one time, a train dispatcher for the Southern at this place.

Miss Sampson is one of South Greensboro's most popular ladies. The happy couple left on the noon train for Washington to spend several days before going to their future home at South Boston.

Couldn't Wake Him Up

When the fire broke out in West's Kandy Kitchin last night, Officer Whittington thought there was a probability of its destroying the entire block and considered it best to tell Mr. Ross, who was in a hypnotic sleep in the Carolina Shoe Company's window. He explained to Mr. Ross, in loud tones, that if he was "possoming" it was time for foolishness to end, and that he had better vacate. Mr. Ross is genuinely hypnotized, though, and no policeman can stand outside and wake him.

Opposing Expansion.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Washington, Jan. 10.—After the transaction of routine business today Senator Mason spoke in opposition to expansion.

Mr. S. A. Fackler, editor of the Micanopy (Fla.) Hustler, with his wife and children, suffered terribly from La Grippe. One Minute Cough Cure was the only remedy that helped them. It acted quickly. Thousands of others use this remedy as a specific for La Grippe and its exhausting after effects. Never fails. Howard Gardner.

DECISION AGAINST QUAY.

His Appeal for Writ of Certiorari Dismissed.

PETITIONERS TO PAY THE COST.

This Decision Will, Without Doubt, Cook the Senator's Goose With Regard to Another Term.

By Wire to the TELEGRAM.

Philadelphia, Jan. 20—The supreme court today announced that it had reached a decision against Quay's appeal for a writ of certiorari. As soon as the Justices entered the court-room Chief Justice Sterrett, holding the papers, took the stand and said: "In the matter of the petition of Senator Quay, his son and Benj. Haywood, the rule is discharged and the petition dismissed at the cost of the petitioners."

The Quays will be tried here at quarter sessions. It is generally believed they will lose, and that the great strength of the opposition will defeat the Senator's re-election.

WESTMINSTER PUT BACK.

Passed Two Unknown Steamers Going East.

By Cable to THE TELEGRAM.

Queenstown, Jan. 10—The British steamer West Minster, Captain Petree, from London to Philadelphia, has put back with ballast tanks leaking and short of coal. She reports having passed two unknown steamers coming east. The captain expressed the opinion that one of them was a disabled vessel of the Atlantic line, because she was fitted with electric lights. There is a growing belief that it was the disabled steamer St. Paul.

The blame now seems to attach to the operator for not holding the west bound trains as ordered.

SANTANELLI LAST NIGHT.

Six Subjects Brought Under the Mystic Spell.

A packed house was greatly interested, instructed and amused at the academy of music last night. Santanelli, master of the hypnotic science, after a short, but graphic and pleasant talk explaining the wonders of hypnotism, called for volunteers, and a number responded. In a few minutes he had seven of them stretched on the floor.

Then the fun began, and for nearly two hours there was more genuine, hearty laughing in the academy than was ever seen there before in the same length of time. It is useless to attempt to enumerate the many funny things done by the hypnotized young men, all of whom live in Greensboro, except one. They thought they were in a hot climate, then in Klondike and were freezing, then in a flower garden with butterflies, bees, bugs etc., and one fellow saw a snake crawling under the shrubbery. It was amusing to see them shoot craps, spin tops etc. Each man thought there was a fly on his nose and made frantic efforts to brush it off.

One of the funniest incidents occurred when Santanelli was showing the hypnotised men some wonderful sleight-of-hand tricks, in which the joke was turned on Brother Reece, of the Record. Santanelli walked up to Mr. Reece and told the men he would take a hen egg from his head. When he raised his hand with his fingers apart about the space of an egg, the boys were surprised, they could see the egg, and one of them who seemed greatly amused, ejaculated: "What a funny place for a hen's nest." All who have seen friend Reece with his hat off can appreciate the joke.

At the close of the performance, Harry Wright, who is Santanelli's acknowledged subject, was put to sleep and now lies asleep in the window at C. M. Vanstory & Co.'s. Mr. Wright is the champion sleeper and on one occasion slept for a period of ten days. He will be awakened tomorrow night at the academy.

Santanelli's audience last night was greatly pleased. The crowd was immense and enough were turned away to have filled the house.

THE REORGANIZATION BILL.

Will be Brought up in Congress Very Soon.

HARRY SKINNER'S MEASURE.

Is Receiving More Consideration than the Circumstances Warrant—No Prospect for its Passage.

Special to THE TELEGRAM.

Washington, Jan. 10—The early passage of the army reorganization bill being anticipated, it is stated at the war department that unless for some very urgent reasons, the department will hereafter refuse to grant further applications from individual volunteers to be mustered out of the service. There are several applications pending for discharge from the service from members of the North Carolina regiment, and this statement of the war department applies to them also. The army reorganization bill is expected to be brought up in congress very soon, and will pass both houses and become a law before the fourth of March, going into effect about the first of May, by which time the entire army will be organized, upon the new basis outlined in the bill, and most of the regiments now in the service will be mustered out.

In connection with this statement of the war department, it is expected that after the passage of the army reorganization bill, many of the volunteers now in the service will seek to enter the regular army by re-enlisting. It is probable too that there may be several applications from young men in North Carolina for commissions in the army under the new organization. Most of the North Carolinians, however, who secure commissions in the regular army when the bill becomes a law, will be the officers who already hold commissions in the volunteer regiments from the state.

A member of congress from the South stated yesterday that much more attention is being paid to the constitutional amendment introduced and fathered by Representative Harry Skinner, of North Carolina, than the circumstances warrant. There is not the slightest prospect of the passage of the amendment through the senate or the house, and like several other bills introduced by members of the delegation recently is not seriously meant.

The repeal by the legislature of the act by which the urging of negroes to leave the state was prohibited, is meeting with the hearty approval of North Carolina people coming to Washington. Representative Kitchin, of North Carolina, stated the other day that the law was useless, and that it would be better for the negroes, and for the state if the colored population in the south were scattered among the northern states.

The reversal in the house yesterday afternoon of the vote on the amendment striking out the appropriation for the civil service commission was anticipated. With the exception of one or two members from the state, most of the North Carolina members voted for the amendment, and in opposition to civil service reform. Mr. Bailey voted for the amendment, but nearly all of the other leaders in the house, or both political parties voted to sustain the civil service commission. Some of the North Carolina members did not vote, being paired.

Representative Kitchin stated on Monday that he hoped for the passage by the house at this session of his bill for the erection of a new public building at Durham, North Carolina. The bill has already passed the senate, and carried an appropriation of $125,000.

Brigadier General Gordon was among the callers at the white house yesterday afternoon. He was also a guest at the dinner given by the President and Mrs. McKinley last night. Two of the regiments to be mustered out of the service, the 6th Virginia and 3rd North Carolina, are in the brigades of North Carolina.

Mr. F. W. Jackson, of North Carolina, is at the Howard House for a visit of a few days. He is accompanied by Mrs. Jackson.

At the postoffice department it is said that very few changes in the postmasterships will be made in North or South Carolina from now on, excepting for vacancies caused by death or resignation, nearly all the important positions in the two states having been filled.

Coughing injures and inflames sore lungs. One Minute Cough Cure loosens the cold, allays coughing and heals quickly. The best cough cure for children. Perfectly harmless. Howard Gardner.

McKINLEY EXPECTS WAR.

Otis Fears the Filipinos Will Next Attack Manila.

Washington, Jan. 9—The Administration's advices, official and unofficial, from Manila have awakened the gravest apprehensions of an armed conflict at Iloilo, and perhaps fighting elsewhere. The president strongly desires a peaceful settlement, but his hope is growing fainter, and unless it come quickly it seems certain that it cannot come at all. Indeed, according to unofficial reports from Manila, the insurgents have notified General Miller that if he lands his forces they will fire upon them and resist their approach.

The members of the administration say that they have reports from Major General Otis indicating that the situation is very grave. Aguinaldo's proclamation of independence and resistance has had a bad effect on the natives and it is evident that General Otis fears that Aguinaldo's influence so banefully exerted at Iloilo may stir up an attact on Manila.

The Philippine crisis seems to be at hand if it has not already come. The administration is prepared to maintain or restore peace by force and with arms. General Miller will have by Tuesday, it is believed, the instructions sent him yesterday, to summon the rebels to surrender within 24 hours and if they refuse, attack with ships and land his men.

AS TO MORTGAGES.

Somebody has introduced a bill in the legislature to provide for a short form of crop lien and chattel mortgage. If somebody will devise means by which liens and mortgages will be unnecessary he will be a public benefactor. If a man has anything to mortgage to secure a debt, he has something with which to pay the debt. The homestead law is the father of the chattel mortgage; and parent and offspring combined have caused many business wrecks. Make a man's possessions, wherever found, liable for his legitimate debts; make his daily wages liable, and men will be careful how they make debts. In a short time the large insolvent accounts on the books of merchants will cease to grow, and people will realize that they must pay for a living. It will promote industry by making all people feel that they must work to live, and living they must work.

Many a man who is regarded as honest and who is honest, sometimes feels that he must make a sacrifice to pay a bill. There are other things he wants to do, other applications he wishes to make of what cash he may have. He knows that under the homestead law he can't be forced to pay; consequently he puts off his debts from time to time, forces his creditor to put off his creditors and finally does a considerable amount of mischief and places himself in a position to be regarded as dishonest. His intentions are all right, but he yields to a desire to purchase something else or invest his money in something which may be an experiment, or to spend it for pleasure instead of paying a debt, intending to pay the debt later, just because the law allows him to do so.

The homestead law has long ago served its day and generation, if, indeed, it was ever entitled, by right reason, to a place on the statute books. Wipe it out and let all that is in the past stay in the past. Let all that a man buys and pays for stand good for that which he buys and doesn't pay for, and it will make business for every man to attend to and inspire him to attend to it.

We have received the first copy of the High Point Daily Citizen. It was launched yesterday by Editor Foote. It starts off sprightly, full of news and hope and has our very best wishes for a long life of usefulness and prosperity. If the Daily Citizen works zealously for the upbuilding of High Point and High Point accords the Citizen a liberal patronage, there are bigger things ahead for both. The Citizen is a four-column folio and High Point is not yet as large as it is destined to be.

The hypnotists have the town, but they have not hypnotized it. They are giving nightly performances and the people are enjoying them. Santanelli at the Academy of Music, and Lee at the Opera House, will furnish sufficient amusement for one week. They are both experts in the science hypnotic. There is sharp rivalry and competition between them, but the Telegram is not taking sides; they are both good.

It is gratifying to the friends of Trinity College (and their name is legion) to know that the spring term has opened with upwards of twenty students in excess of the fall term; it is doubly so when you remember that the fall term was far in excess of the previous year.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Yesterday's Proceedings in The Senate and House.

Raleigh, Jan. 10—The senate was opened at ten o'clock yesterday morning with prayer by Rev. Dr. Gibbs.

Senator Butler sent a communication to the senate requesting or suggesting that an act be passed relative to the fish culture business, similar to the one passed by the general assemqly of Tennessee.

The following bills were introduced: For the relief of the sheriff of Alleghany. To repeal chapter 316, laws of 1897. To issue bonds for Charlotte water-works. To investigate railroad and telegraph charges. To amend chapter 45, laws 1895. To provide for election of railroad commissioners by the people; this bill provides for their election at the same time and in the same manner as the members of the general assembly, that the terms of the commissioners to be chosen by the general assembly now in session shall expire on the 1st of January 1901; that at the general election for members of the general assembly in the year 1900 there shall be elected three commissioners; one for two years, one for four years and one for six years. The next general election preceding the expiration of the term of office of any of said commissioners shall elect his successor, whose term of office shall be six years, and that in case of vacancy the governor shall appoint and his appointee shall hold until the qualification of his successor.

Fuller, colored, introduced a bill relating to the treaty of peace and other foreign relations. The chairman announced that further evidence had been filed in the contested election case of Cannon against Frank.

The Reidsville water-works bill passed its third reading; a number of other bills of minor importance or interest to certain localities passed final readings. More evidence was filled in the contested election case from the thirty-first district. A bill to repeal chapter 316 laws 1895 passed final reading as did also a bill to amend the charter of Elizabeth City.

Adjourned until 10 o'clock today.

THE HOUSE.

Rev. Dr. Carter, pastor of the First Baptist church, offered prayer in the house when that body opened at noon.

The colored representative from Craven county, Isaac H. Smith, rose to a question of personal privilege in regard to the action of the republican caucus in expelling him last Saturday night. He said he was part and parcel of the grand republican party, representing the noble people of Craven. He claimed that the action of the caucus was an unjust and unwarranted attack on one member and was therefore one on all; that it was an unfounded attack by a caucus said to be republican. "They say I am read out of the party. These same fellows said during the late campaign that the democrats would disfranchise the negro, and yet before these democrats have even a chance to disfranchise any one these fellows go out and disfranchise the only member of their race who has voted in its true interest. They have disfranchised me because I had the courage to do what was right. I came here saying I was in favor of good government. How else can you prove you are for good government unless you vote for it. In other words, by doing as I did. Because I voted for a democrat, I am declared not to be a republican. I brought out McKinley three years before anybody else did. I spent more money during the last campaign than any other republican in the state. Russell would not have been Governor but for the negroes. He has appointed only eight of us to office, he says, and yet we gave him 120,000 votes. Yet all he does wrong, my race is charged with. God bless your sweet souls, my white friends, don't charge us with what Russell has done. The Lieutenant Governor, who owes his election to negroes, presided at this caucus. I shall claim the right to vote as I please, which is guaranteed to all good citizens.

Representative Petree, republican, rose to a question of personal privilege, saying that he introduced the resolution in the caucus regarding Smith and denying that it was an attack on good government. Petree declared he was in favor of white supremacy.

The following bills were introduced: To amend chapter 1722 of the Code. To provide for paying witnesses. To remove the disabilities of married women. Regarding internal improvements. To provide a short form of crop liens and chattel mortgages. To repeal the act creating the railroad commission. To protect lives and property on railroads by providing against incompetent employees. To establish the Vance Textile School and appropriate $15,000, to be located at a place which will give a like sum. To repeal chapter 287 public laws 1895. For the relief of ex-Sheriff Hoskins, of Jones. To repeal section 2, chapter 557, acts 1897. To allow Bertie to issue bonds and levy special tax. To alter the corporate limits of the town of Kelford. To amend chapter 288 public laws 1895, regarding Bertie and Craven Superior courts. To promote the comfort of passengers on railroad trains. To prescribe the courses of studying and the books to be used in the public schools (and giving authority to have such books printed at the deaf-mute school at Morganton.

Discovered by a Woman

Another great discovery has been made, and that too, by a lady in this country. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night; and with two bottles has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hammick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

The Congregation Smiled.

Two country clergymen had agreed to exchange pulpits on a certain date. One of them made the following solemn announcement to his congregation on the Sabbath previous to the event:

"My dear brethren and sisters, I have the pleasure of stating that on next Sunday morning the Rev. Zachariah B. Day will preach for you. Let us now sing two verses of hymn No. 489, 'That Awful Day Will Surely Come.'"

And it took him some time to discover why the congregation smiled.—Syracuse Standard.

Quieting Her Doubts.

A lady selecting a hat at a milliner's asked cautiously, "Is there anything about these feathers that might bring me into trouble with the Audubon society?"

"Oh, no, madam," said the milliner, who was from London. "These feathers, madam, are the feathers of a howl, and the howl, you know, madam, is more of a cat than a bird."—Boston Transcript.

Same Cat.

First Judge (at cat show)—This is the finest one in its class. There can hardly be two opinions about that.

Second Judge (with tears)—It was that cat, or one exactly like it, that ate my pet pigeon last week. You will never get a prize by my vote, you mean, nasty animal!—Chicago Tribune.

The Bicycle In Law.

That the bicycle is not a "tool" or "apparatus" that belongs to the "trade" or "profession" of an architect and building superintendent is decided in Smith verses Horton (Tex. Civ. App., 46 S. W., 400), although it is deemed a useful and convenient mode of locomotion.—Case and Comment.

As She Heard It.

After the new servant had been installed in the home of a New Jersey housewife the day finally came when the privilege of "going out" had to be decided on. This fell on a Thursday, to which the mistress assented.

"You may go today, Bridget," she said, "and every other Thursday."

"All right, ma'am," replied Bridget.

The next week on Thursday surprise was great at Bridget's coming from her room all togged out for another afternoon out. The mistress rebelled and asked her if she remembered that she was to go out only every other Thursday.

"Certainly I do, ma'am, certainly! Didn't you say I could go out that Thursday and 'every other Thursday'—that Thursday and every Thursday afterward?"

"No, no!" replied the mistress. "That Thursday and every second Thursday thereafter."

"Sure you didn't say so. You positively told me that Thursday and every other Thursday. Of course that means every Thursday."

Bridget won.—New York Sun.

Anxious Little Sister.

Dorothy has a baby brother who has recently been ill with the coming through of his first teeth. The baldness of baby's head has caused Dorothy great anxiety. She stood at the mother's knee one day, gently patting the little head.

"Be careful, Dorothy," said the mother. "You know poor little brother is sick. He is cutting teeth."

Dorothy patted the bald head reflectively. "Ma[illegible]," she said, "will it make him sick when he cuts his hair? I'm afraid he'll have a tough time."—New York World.

When you can not sleep for coughing take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It always gives prompt relief. It is most excellent for colds, too, as it aids expectoration, relieves the lungs and prevents any tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by C. E. Holton.

La Grippe is again epidemic. Every precaution should be taken to avoid it. Its specific cure is One Minute Cough Cure. A. J. Shepherd, publisher Agricultural Journal and Advertiser, Elden, Mo., says: "No one will be disappointed in using One Minute Cough Cure for La Grippe." Pleasant to take, quick to act. Howard Gardner.

Mr. Elisha Berry, of this place, says he never had anything to do him so much good and give such quick relief from rheumatism as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. He was bothered with shooting pains from hip to knee until he used this liniment, which affords prompt relief.—B. F. Baker, druggist, St. Paris, Ohio. For sale by C. E. Holton.

Two Slips by Dickens.

Mr. Marcus Stone, the English artist, was when a young man much associated with Dickens as an illustrator of "Our Mutual Friend" and of "Great Expectations." He notes that Dickens' characters were so positively real to him that the artists never had the least difficulty in learning all about them from him.

"When," says Mr. Stone, "I had to go to him and get instructions and hints as to the characters I had to draw, I always got a clear and definite answer, except on two occasions. You will remember that Silas Wegg, in 'Our Mutual Friend,' had a wooden leg. I asked Dickens which leg it was. He gave me an answer which turned out to be wrong. The other occasion was this: When he was discussing the cover of the story, he said that one of the scenes in it should be the death of Eugene Raeburn. You will remember that Eugene Raeburn does not die. His creator relented at the last moment and allowed him to live."

Anthony Trollope, the artist says, was just the reverse of this. "He did not seem to take anything like the same interest in his characters as Dickens. When I would ask him a question about one of his characters, his answer nearly always was, 'I don't know.' 'Had the young lady fair hair or dark?' I would ask. 'I don't know,' was the reply. "Was she tall or middle sized or small?" I would inquire. 'I don't know,' was again the answer."

When Gunpowder Was New.

A curious feature about this evolution in methods of hunting was the hesitation with which gunpowder was taken up by the great nobles. Not only did it take quite a century to familiarize hunters with it, but the evidence that has come down to us shows that the humble classes were the first to use it for shooting game. Maximilian, ardent sportsman that he was, tells us himself that he could shoot farther and with greater accuracy with his crossbow than his keeper could with the fire tube. To prove this he tells us the well known story of a certain chamois standing at a distance of 200 fathoms, which, after being pronounced as too far off by his henchman, who was armed with one of the first sporting firearms mentioned in print, comes tumbling down, pierced at the first attempt, by the emperor's bolt.

From other sources we learn of strict measures being adopted to prevent poachers and "wood loafers" using firearms, and this at a period when princes still used the cumbrous crossbow and spear. It was only in the last quarter of the sixteenth century that firearms had ousted other weapons for certain forms of the chase, the deer battue being among the latter.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Major Lawrie and the Spider.

Major Lawrie is the hero of an interesting superstition. Before Atbara he discovered in the ventilator of his helmet an energetic spider, which came out in the evening and, having had his supper on flies, returned to his hiding place. Perhaps, remembering the story of Bruce and the spider, the major left his new friend unmolested and went into the Atbara fight with him. Men were killed all round, but Major Lawrie escaped without a scratch. At Omdurman he commanded a battery and again was unwounded. Meanwhile the spider slumbered in the helmet, waiting for the ridiculous human commotion to cease that he might come out and kill flies for supper.

When the hurly burly was over, Major Lawrie packed various articles to be sent home and among them the helmet and the spider. Too late, he remembered that he had sent his little friend on a long voyage without any larder. In great tribulation he hastened to London, opened the helmet box, expecting to find the spider a corpse, and was rejoiced to see him alive, and even vigorous. Stranger still, on the way to England he (we beg pardon—she) had produced two young spiders!—Public Opinion.

Baltimore the Social Arcadia.

It would surprise New Yorkers to know that there are families in Baltimore who go into the very best society of the city—and it is universally admitted that there is no better society in the world than that of this city—and whose incomes are under $3,000.

It is not cheapness that rules Baltimore society, but it is reasonableness. Search the world over and you will not find lovelier dancers, prettier girls or more universal cheerfulness. It is in the atmosphere of the town.—Baltimore American.

The Real Reason.

Here is a juvenile story picked up by the Chicago News: What bright eyes you have!" said the visitor to 5-year-old Tommy. "You must get plenty of sleep."

"Yes'm," he answered. "My mamma makes me go to bed every night at 8 o'clock."

"That's to keep you healthy," said the visitor.

"No, it ain't," replied the youngster. "It's so she can mend my clothes."

Comparing Notes.

"My family can't help feeling a little proud of having been carried over by the Mayflower," said the young woman who was visiting in Chicago.

"Is that so?" answered the young man interestedly. "None of our folks ever went into the florist business. What brought us through was wheat."—Washington Star.

The extraordinary precocity of children of India has called forth the astonishment of a recent traveler, who says that many of them are skilled workmen at an age when children are usually learning the alphabet.

While we wish to be obliging and courteous to our customers and try ro please all, we must insist upon getting our business upon more of a Cash Basis.

MOONLIGHT IN MUSIC.

Story of How Beethoven Created His Wonderful Sonata.

Beethoven's famous composition, the "Moonlight Sonata," is said to have been composed under the following circumstances:

One evening, as Beethoven and a friend were hurrying through the streets of Bonn, they heard the familiar notes of the "Sonata In F." Something in the musician's touch attracted the attention of Beethoven, and he stopped and listened. Suddenly the music stopped, and the despairing words of the musician came to them through the open window, "Oh, if I could but hear some really good musician play this wonderful piece!" and the words ended in a sob.

"Let us go in," said Beethoven. They entered and found the player a young girl, poor and blind. Beethoven sat down at the old harpsichord and played as he had never played before. His listeners were spellbound. "Tell us," they begged, "who are you?" For answer he played the opening bars in the "Sonata In F." "It is Beethoven!" they exclaimed in awe and admiration.

Suddenly the candle flickered and went out. Beethoven ceased playing and bowed his head upon his hand. His friend threw open the shutters. A flood of beautiful moonlight entered the room. Its transfiguring light touched up the poor old instrument and rested upon the noble figure bowed before it. The profound silence was broken at last by the musician, who said: "Listen! I will improvise a sonata to the moonlight." Then was created this wonderful sonata, beginning in a sad, tender movement, the embodiment in sound of the gentle moonlight transfiguring and glorifying the dark earth.

Suddenly the music ceased, and with a brief farewell Beethoven hurried home to put upon paper this famous composition.—Philadelphia Saturday Post.

A REALISTIC ACT.

An Amusing Story of Jefferson as Rip Van Winkle.

While he was playing Rip Van Winkle at Chicago Jefferson once went to the theater very much exhausted by a long day's fishing on the lake. As the curtain rose on the third act it disclosed the white haired Rip still deep in his 20 years' nap. Five, 10, 20 minutes passed and he did not awaken. The audience began to get impatient and the prompter uneasy.

The great actor doubtless knew what he was about, but this was carrying the realistic business too far. The fact was that all this time Jefferson was really sleeping the sleep of the just, or rather of the fisherman who had sat eight hours in the sun. Finally the gallery became uproarious, and one of the "gods" wanted to know if there was going to be "19 years more of this snooze business!"

At this point Jefferson began to snore. This decided the prompter, who opened a small trap beneath the stage and began to prod Rip from below. The fagged comedian fumbled in his pocket for an imaginary railway ticket and muttered drowsily. "Going right through, 'ductor."

At this entirely new reading the audience was transfixed with amazement, when all at once Jefferson sat up with a loud shriek, evidently in agony. The exasperated prompter had "jabbed" him with a pin. Consciousness of the situation came to him and the play went on after that with a rush.—Philadelphia Post.

A Binding Chinese Oath.

We are accustomed to all manner of swearing—that is, of course, legal oath taking—in this country, but we do not recollect hearing of so queer a medium of attestation as a "guillotined black cockatoo." That is what the police of a country district in New South Wales had to provide the other day for a finicking Chinaman, who obstinately declined to swear on anything else. Headless fowls were brought, but in vain. Even a black swan, a luxury surely for a Chinese witness, was declined.

After many days a dead cockatoo of the required hue was discovered in a hut of one of the other "heathen," as they call the Celestials, who muloted the officials 10 shillings for a fast decomposing bird. Then the solemn and peculiar oath was duly administered, when the difficult witness blandly declared that he knew nothing about the case and sat down smiling.—London Chronicle.

Revised Geography.

A correspondent reports an occurrence which took place at a night school.

"Williams," asked the instructor, "which is the largest island in the world?"

"It's either Asia or Africa," replied the young man to whom the question was addressed.

"I am speaking of islands, Williams. Those are continents."

"I think not, sir," drawled Williams. "When the Suez canal was cut, it made islands of both of 'em, sir. Come to think of it, sir, the largest is Asia and Europe. It's all one piece of ground."—Youth's Companion.

His First Client.

In an address delivered at Hartford the Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale told the story of James Russell Lowell's first client as Lowell had told it to him. Lowell had hardly opened his law office when a stranger appeared. The young lawyer deferentially offered him a chair, took out his notebook, talked of the weather, and when he finally came to business found the stranger was a bill collector.

"What will be the cost of the war?" asked Queen Augusta when French and Germans grew belligerent. "Only a Napoleon," replied Bismarck.
